

PRIVACY STATEMENT

The Connecticut Network for Children and Youth, Inc. (the Network) is committed to safeguarding contributor privacy. We operate under the following set of privacy principles:

The only information the Network obtains about on-line contributors or individual visitors to its Web site is that which is supplied voluntarily by contributors or visitors.

In cases when the Network may need personal information to provide visitors with customized content or to inform them about new features or services, visitors are explicitly asked for that information.

Personally identifiable information provided by visitors (e.g., name, e-mail or home address, etc.) will not be disclosed to any other party. If, at any time, the Network believes it would be to the benefit of site visitors and contributors to share information with other organizations, visitors will be explicitly asked for permission to do so.

The Network's website is not designed for use by children nor does the Web site seek to collect information on children who may visit the site.

The Network employs strict security measures to safeguard all on-line financial transactions: A secure server hosts files and forms that are used to complete transactions. Personal contributor information is stored in a secure database and any data sent to third parties to complete a transaction are encrypted using Secure Socket Layer (SSL) technology. To ensure the privacy of contributors, the Network does not store credit card information.

Additional details on our information gathering, use, and privacy practices are provided below.

General Information About All Users

To determine the number of visitors to our site and the most- and least-visited pages on the site, the Network gathers statistical information on a monthly basis to understand how the public is using the site. These statistical reports do not contain any personal information on visitors to the site.

Personal Information About You

We may ask you for such personal information as your e-mail address, home and work mailing address so that we can provide news and information that you have elected to receive. Information collected by the Network is not shared with any other party without your permission with the exception of the Charles Stewart Mott Foundation.

The Network may use this information, however, to notify you by e-mail of additions to the Web site, coming events, or to convey other important information. Any questions regarding this policy should be addressed to PO Box 1409, Hartford, CT 06143 or via email to info@ctafterschoolnetwork.org
